SERGEANT TIM LYNCH

Growing up my parents both guided and helped me develop a good sense of right and wrong. They also instilled in me the need to give back to the community. In high school I was exposed to the world of law enforcement and I decided to give back to my community through police work. I met a wonderful woman who I married and have spent the last 30 years with. Sharing your life with someone you love will make your life full and enjoyable. My biggest dream has always been to become an author. As with anything worth doing writing takes patience and imagination to create a world on paper others will enjoy. This dream will last for all my life and bring me many hours of enjoyment.
